Conclusion

In the first few years of the New York Islanders franchise (1972-1974), the teams were below average or average in terms of wins and scoring goals compared to the rest of the NHL.

From 1975-1987, the New York Islanders were among the league's best. During this time, the Islanders won 4 Stanley Cup Championships in a row from 1979-1982. They were led by 4 Hall of Fame players and a Hall of Fame goaltender.

From 1988-2011, the New York Islanders have struggled to regain the success they had from 1975-1987. Only three times during this era where the franchise was above league average in wins.
